

EUROMAC'S FIFTY YEARS

Euromac has crossed another milestone of their company's history. In January 2018 the company celebrate half a century of manufacturing slitter rewinders, growing from a small family business to one of the renowned worldwide leaders.

Euromac is currently managed by the 2nd and 3rd generation owners and has remained 100% family owned. Vice-President Mr Massimo Miglietta explains: "Our late father Adelio Miglietta considered to manufacture rotogravure printers, but fierce local competition led him in 1968 to diversify and projected our first slitter rewinder".

At the end of May 2018 Euromac will exhibit at the Ipack-Ima, Plast and Print4All, where Euromac will also open their factory doors. Next to promotions, deals and announcements which are being posted on their website (www.euromacsplitters.com) and various specialized trade magazines and sites, Euromac will be notifying their customers and collaborators with personal invitations to join the various festivities.

Renovated and new facilities

Euromac is investing in its manufacturing structure and facility. The company is building of a new production facility, next to their current facility in Villanova Monferrato (AL) in the North of Italy and is expanding their commercial department and development centre. The new facilities are scheduled to open by the 3rd quarter of 2018. With the expansion Euromac will also expand their solar photovoltaic panels and increase electricity production.

Global relaunch

In addition to its headquarters in Villanova Monferrato and distributors that serve the different countries of the world, Euromac soon will launch a brand-new website with new features to serve clients. Euromac renewed their company logo and brand which for 2018 exclusively will feature the 50 years symbol.

Progress in 2018

Excellent results are booked as the production pipeline is nearly fully booked for the full year, with investments having boosted productivity by 35%. □
